COLLECTIVE PORTRAIT OF HEAD OF OMSK SCHOOL FOR TRAINING INFANTRY WARRANT OFFICERS

In the article, on the basis of the prosopographic method, the collective portrait of the head of Omsk schools for the training of infantry warrant officers is reconstructed. The study is based on army clerical records from the Russian State Military Historical Archive and the Historical Archive of the Omsk Region. As a result of the study, it is found that the head of Omsk school for training infantry warrant officers, as a rule, is a nobleman, of the Orthodox faith, a combat officer with the rank of staff captain to lieutenant general, who has experience of direct participation in hostilities.

Keywords: Russian empire, armed forces, personnel policy, ensign schools, World War I, Omsk.

Acknowledgments

The author expresses his gratitude to Evgeny Yurievich Tyulkov for providing him with a biographical note on A. P. Ushakov, the last head of the 1st Omsk school for training infantry warrant officers.
